- The PC is a beast!
- I was also looking at the Orin when I was researching creating our own LLM. I do think that the Orin is a good choice, however I don't know if the Orin nano would be able support inference with only 8gb of ram. The nano could be good for models with a low number of parameters or for testing.
- The codrone.edu looks great for learning and should have good tutorials!
- I am a bit confused on the flight controller and camera. Is this for a custom drone? I have sourced some of these components in the past and they need other components for the full drone
- I do like the parrot drone since sent it, ill look into a few alternatives to see our options though
- Overall looks good!